MARKET UPDATE

AS OF OCTOBER 31, 2025

ECONOMIC RECAP

- With the government shutdown that began on October 1, many federal agencies responsible for publishing economic data have paused operations, making it more difficult to gauge the current trajectory of the U.S. economy. Despite this data gap, third quarter corporate earnings have been notably strong, offering a positive signal about underlying economic momentum. Sixty-four percent of S&P 500 companies reported results in October, with earnings rising an average of nearly 11%, surpassing consensus expectations of 8% growth.
- The September Consumer Price Index (CPI) report, released on October 24 despite the ongoing government shutdown, showed inflation rising slightly less than expected. Headline CPI increased 0.3% month-over-month and 3.0% year-over-year, driven primarily by a 4.1% surge in gasoline prices. Core CPI, which excludes food and energy, rose 0.2% on the month and also 3.0% annually, reflecting moderation in rent and travel-related costs. The softer-than-expected inflation print reinforces market expectations that the Federal Reserve will maintain a dovish stance and is likely to continue easing policy.

- The U.S. housing market showed signs of stabilization but slowing momentum in October, according to Realtor.com's Monthly Housing Trends Report. Active listings rose 15.3% year-over-year—marking 24 consecutive months of inventory growth, though the pace has decelerated steadily since May. Despite mortgage rates falling to a 12-month low of 6.17%, buyer activity remained soft. Homes spent an average of 63 days on the market—up five days from last year—and pending sales declined 1.9% year-over-year. Nationally, housing prices held steady, with the median list price edging up just 0.4% to $424,200, though prices declined in the South and West and rose modestly in the Northeast and Midwest.

EQUITY RECAP

- U.S. equities extended their rally in October, with the S&P 500 gaining 2.3%, lifting its year-to-date return to 17.5%. The Federal Reserve delivered a widely expected 25 basis point rate cut, lowering the target range to 3.75%–4.00%. More notably, the Fed announced it will end quantitative tightening on December 1, pausing balance sheet runoff—a move interpreted by markets as a pivot toward a more dovish stance. This shift, combined with resilient earnings data, helped sustain investor optimism despite lingering macro uncertainties.
- Corporate earnings surprised to the upside with third quarter earnings-per-share growth tracking at 11%, well ahead of the 8% consensus. While strong results supported broad market strength, the reaction to earnings misses was unforgiving, with several high-profile names facing steep declines. Technology stocks continued to lead, rising 6% in October, driven by robust demand and AI-fueled momentum. The sector remains the engine of market performance, with investors rewarding innovation and scale—but punishing any signs of weakness.
- OpenAI dominated headlines with a series of transformative announcements. Its $100 billion GPU deal with AMD—in exchange for warrants potentially worth 10% of AMD's equity—sent AMD shares soaring 58% in October. Additional partnerships with Amazon Web Service (AWS) and Broadcom for cloud and custom AI chips further energized the space. OpenAI also launched its Atlas web browser, expanding its consumer footprint. Nvidia reached a historic milestone, becoming the first company to hit a $5 trillion market cap. Meanwhile, gold rose 4% amid volatility, and the U.S. dollar strengthened 2%, buoyed by Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell's cautious tone on future rate cuts.

FIXED INCOME RECAP

- On October 29, the Federal Reserve lowered its benchmark interest rate by 25 basis points to a range of 3.75%–4.00%, marking its second cut in 2025. The move aims to support growth amid a cooling labor market and persistent inflation, which remains around 3%. Fed Chair Powell emphasized that another cut in December is “not a foregone conclusion,” citing uncertainty due to the government shutdown and mixed economic signals. Markets reacted by lowering expectations for further easing, with the probability of a December cut falling from 93% to 64%. The Fed also announced it will end its balance sheet reduction program in December, shifting toward a more neutral policy stance.
- In October, corporate bond markets remained active and resilient, with investment-grade (IG) spreads tightening to some of the lowest levels seen in 15 years. Strong earnings and stable credit fundamentals supported demand, while total returns for IG bonds reached over 6% year-to-date. However, spreads began to widen slightly toward the end of the month as investors reacted to the Federal Reserve’s cautious tone and ongoing inflation concerns. High-yield (HY) bonds saw mixed performance, with some sector spreads hitting post-crisis lows and others showing signs of stress. Overall, while yields remain attractive, analysts warn that tight spreads and rising event risks—like mergers and regulatory shifts—could lead to more volatility ahead.
- Municipal bonds posted their strongest monthly performance in 16 years, with a 2.3% return in September, driven by falling yields and reduced supply. The front end of the curve has normalized, making munis more attractive relative to taxable bonds. However, fiscal stress is mounting in cities like Chicago, which faces a $1.8 billion budget gap by 2026. In New York City, mayoral frontrunner Zohran Mamdani’s platform—featuring free public transit, rent freezes and city-run grocery stores—has raised concerns about future muni credit quality. Analysts warn that aggressive spending plans could lead to credit downgrades and higher borrowing costs if not matched by sustainable revenue.

SPECIAL TOPIC: RECENT DRIVERS OF GOLD PRICE AND THE ROLE OF GOLD IN A PORTFOLIO

- Gold has been used as a store of value and a medium of exchange for millennia, the primary characteristics of a currency. As such it does not generate a cash flow, either in the form of a yield or a share of profits. For this reason, we do not include gold in our diversified portfolios that are designed to provide an accumulation of wealth over time from a positive real rate of return.
- Recent history, however, indicates that gold is a special currency. Gold has been legal for U.S. investors to hold since 1975, and since that time, it has appreciated against every fiat currency and by a compound annual rate of 6.2% in U.S. dollar terms (see Exhibits 1 and 2). Although negative from 1980-2000 and 2011-2023, this appreciation compares favorably to the return of U.S.-denominated bonds and, although it is half that of the U.S. stock market, remains generally uncorrelated with both instruments.

Exhibit 1: Value of $1 invested in 1975

- Often this appreciation has been attributed to gold's ability to hedge the inflation risks that have eroded the purchasing power of fiat currencies. But during the 2021-2022 U.S. inflation spike, gold price remained unchanged. Its 51% appreciation this year is attributable more to investor concerns about the mounting public debts owed by the same governments that sponsor the world's major currencies. If those debts become unmanageable, currency debasement could result. In August, Fed Chair Powell's speech in Jackson Hole, WY, signaling the Fed's desire to cut rates in the presence of above-target inflation arguably raised concerns about debasement.

SPECIAL TOPIC: RECENT DRIVERS OF GOLD PRICE AND THE ROLE OF GOLD IN A PORTFOLIO (CONTINUED)

- Investors have also recently taken their cues from central banks, which have been purchasing gold at twice their typical annual rates for each of the last three years in the wake of Covid and the Russian invasion of Ukraine. The accompanying surge in gold price has taken the value of those reserve holdings above the value of U.S. Treasuries held in reserves, providing a headline that has encouraged further speculation.
- Global portfolios with foreign investments can manage the risk of dollar depreciation. Exposure to inflation can also be managed using explicitly inflation-hedged instruments and assets that can incorporate inflation shocks in long-term performance (like equities). Patient investors with additional concerns about the depreciation of all fiat currencies or a desire for a safe haven should not be discouraged from holding some gold in their portfolios. Physical gold is the best implementation and futures contracts are the worst, with physical gold ETFs in-between.

Emergency Transportation Services to Warming Locations

To: MCT Board of Trustees

From: SJ Morrison, Managing Director

Date: November 20, 2025

SUMMARY:

With cold weather approaching, Madison County social service organizations have developed overnight warming locations (in Alton, Edwardsville, and Granite City) which activate for unhoused individuals when temperatures reach 20 degrees Fahrenheit or below. Lead by local nonprofit, the Alton Community Development Corporation (CDC), these locations not only offer a warm place of refuge out of the extreme cold, but they also provide individuals with dinner in the evening and breakfast in the morning. Since not all the warming locations are located on Madison County Transit (MCT) bus routes, transportation is a challenge. To provide emergency transportation services to unhoused individuals in the MCT District, staff propose the following solution:

PROPOSAL:

Because warming locations only activated 31 nights in 2024 and 14 nights in 2023, MCT has the capacity and resources to assist unhoused individuals in the District to safely reach these activated warming locations. Details of the proposed service are as follows:

- Activations only occur when temperatures reach 20 degrees Fahrenheit or below, (as determined by AccuWeather for Alton, Illinois).
- On-duty “extra board” drivers would be utilized to operate this service.
- The decision to activate is made by 12:00 Noon on the day of the activation, providing staff time to ensure that drivers will be available to assist if needed.
- Emergency transportation services would only be offered from MCT Transfer Stations or designated MCT bus stops to the nearest overnight warming location.
- Unhoused individuals or surrogates could call the MCT Dispatch office to request the ride and the phone number would be placed on cards and fliers distributed by the Alton CDC.
- Trips to the overnight warming locations would only be made from 5:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.
- Trips would be offered fare free from the designated MCT bus stop to the overnight warming location.

WHEREAS, the homeless population in Madison County and those in the community that are without shelter has increased significantly over the past several years and continues to rise; and,

WHEREAS, to connect the homeless population to services and goods, Madison County will be hosting its annual Project Homeless Connect event on Friday, January 30, 2026, from 10:00am to 3:00pm at Riverbend Family Ministries located at 144 E. Ferguson Avenue in Wood River, Illinois; and,

An Invitation for Bids (IFB) was issued October 7, 2025, seeking sealed bids for the Trail Crossing Safety Improvements Project. The project consists of furnishing all material, equipment and labor to install new pedestrian crossing beacon assemblies, posts and foundations, advanced signage, pavement markings, and all other ancillary work necessary to complete the improvements in accordance with the plans and specifications.

Three bids were received. Right Way Traffic Control, Inc. was identified as the apparent low bidder. A price analysis deemed their bid price fair and reasonable; their bid was 14% lower than the engineer's cost estimate. Substantial completion of the project is anticipated to occur within 124 calendar days from notice-to-proceed.

Recommendation is being made for a contract award to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder, Right Way Traffic Control, Inc., in the amount of $249,034.00, subject to additions and deductions based on the actual quantities used for construction of the project known as Trail Crossing Safety Improvements No. 26-1-25200.
